Message from the Principal

“Education is what remains after one has forgotten everything he has learned in school.” Albert Einstein

If the above quote from Einstein is true, a school magazine is what reminds you of your school days in the school. Reason enough we have our Vidyalaya Patrika released year after year. It won't allow one's memories of the school die so easily, so easily. The attempt has been to showcase the prominent activities of the Vidyalaya through the Patrika. The Patrika reaches hands through the students and tells the society around how Kendriya Vidyalaya Ottapalam has been fulfilling its responsibilities as the 'Nation Builder'. The Vidyalaya has taken definitive and progressive steps in the year that was. This Patrika documents each of them. The milestones have been crossed thanks to the team work and every member of the Vidyalaya Parivar has chipped in with their contribution. The Chairman and members of VMC, KV Ottapalam are instrumental in ensuring that the Vidyalaya is taken care of in the best way possible. The Vidyalaya is indebted to them forever. The Deputy Commissioner, KVS RO, Ernakulum Region, Assistant Commissioners and all the officials of the Regional Office have a special place in our heart for their continued support in the all-round development of the Vidyalaya.. The whole team of students and members of staff have passionately worked together to make this Patrika a reality. Like in every other venture, it has been a united effort from 'Team KV Ottapalam'. Hats off to them

Dear Reader, here is one more issue of the Patrika, from us with love, exclusively for you. May your reading be a joyful experience-a rewarding one at that.

From the Editor's Desk

The Vidyalaya Patrika aims at providing a platform for children to pursue their imagination and unleash the power of creativity. In today's fast pace of life, children, very often, are deprived of opportunities to contemplate and write on what they see and experience in their own life. They are vacillating between two worlds-one that of extreme competition where aesthetic sensibilities are laughed upon and the other that makes them conscious of their own inadequacy.

The Patrika has provided the students with an excellent opportunity to exhibit The skills they have acquired and developed in the classrooms and play fields through interactions and observations. These pages will certainly give you glimpses of the emerging talents.

Happy Reading!

BOOKS

Books are fun for kids and elders alike,
No matter where you are, carry a book you like.
It is so much fun to be lost among the pages
To experience the world through the eyes of another,
No matter what your age is.
You can roam around the corridors of Hogwarts,
Or soar across the Quid ditch field on a Fire bolt
Or live in a workhouse with Oliver Twist.
Many stories to read, many plots with a twist.
You cant put a book down, once you start reading one.
Reading a book is like travelling around the world.
A great book is a friend you can always count on.

CHILDHOOD DAYS

My childhood days were precious,
As are they for all.
For in those days I was carefree,
And enjoy I did to the fullest.
O how fun I had,
In those jolly days,

How much I laughed,
And cried and smiled.
Alas, it would not last,
Those days were numbered.
Then soon came adulthood,
With a presence so ominous.
I did not want it to end,
No one ever does.
But it is a rule of life,
You have to keep moving forward.

O how I long for those days

Once again,

My childhood days,

My precious days.

COVETOUS DREAMS

I have nothing, nothing,

I am gonna die...

Only cause -My dreams, big dreams!

I had a dream, needs, for luxury...

When I was young

To become a millionaire,

With a dozen cars and bikes

In a huge bungalow.

Went through my ages,

For searching luxury...

Like a psychopath for

My dreams, big dreams...

Finally and finally...

Went through my dream!

In my real life

I was contented with my big dreams!

A day came that turned,

My big dream to a covetous dream

Never dreamt of a happy family

Never dreamt of a healthy life.

I have nothing, nothing...

Only cause - my covetous dream.

Big covetous dream!!!

CHALLENGES FOR GETTING JOBS IN THE FUTURE

Will there be jobs in the future? Will the future generations get jobs even if they are qualified? For the next generations, it will be difficult to get jobs because of high competition. Technology has taken away half of the jobs done by human. Now there are self-driving cars, cooking robots, delivery drone, etc. Cars that drive themselves, machines that read X- rays are all new forms of automation.

Now all things are becoming computerized and automatic. About half the activities people are paid to do globally could theoretically be automated using currently demonstrated technologies. After some years many of the human paid jobs will be taken up by machines. A very large number of people may need to shift their occupational categories and learn new skills in the years ahead according to the present estimation.

EVERY SUCCESS STORY IS ALSO A STORY OF FAILURE

Failure is the opportunity to begin again more intelligently. Success and Failures are like two sides of a coin; Success gives us a sense of joy and pride while failure discourages and depresses us. It is almost impossible to move on in life without experiencing some failure. The greatest barrier to success is the fear of failure. Successful people also make mistakes, but they don't give up, they learn from their failure. Always remember if you are not prepared to be wrong at times, you will never come up with anything. So focus on your destiny and move on; Success may be waiting at the very next step. All the Best...

IN THE CORNER OF MY MIND

I got to think many a times,

The thoughts that wander throughout my mind

And I end up with the things,

That is all past now.

Memories in the corner of my mind,
They are short, long, big and small.

The sweet ones make me fresh,
And the dark ones make me learn.
Sweet memories of my childhood,

Take me back in time.

But, in the corner of my mind,
Someone orders to get it through.

Things that wander in my mind,
Give me experience and confidence,

They push me through life,

But they never fade away.

As they stay in the corner of my mind,

MY SECOND HOME

School is the second home they say.

But in my home, mom used to feed me by Showing the moon, not by measuring its parallax.

She used to teach me numbers

Not formulas and angles or sets.

She used to teach me poems,

Not the sonnets or the Shakespearean lines.

She used to show me flowers and plants,

But not it' s specimen in glass jars.
And she used to take me to movies
But why this school makes so complicated
So that I measure the waves of the three-dimensional movie
Instead of enjoying it.
Anyway it is so lovely as I gained some
Than I lost.
A great friendship, teamwork and happy memories
To be remembered in my whole life.
Some think their second home as hell,
For me it was a temple which taught
Complicated things but great experiences.

NOT ANYMORE

Why you are like this ?

Why do you think I should like

The most you liked.

Why? Oh ! Because I am yours

Then hear...

I quit! I have wasted my life

Being a doll to you

You get angry and you show your anger on me.

I don' t want to listen anymore

I am not a doll anymore

I am going to catch my dream, my passion

Every time you make me cry

Every tear that came out of my eye

It's my life, my passion, my thoughts

But not anymore...

Every time you say -

"Don't do it!"

But not anymore

"I have a passion"

"I will go wherever to get it "

Every time-you beat me by Saying these words

It doesn't hurt me anymore

You are hurting me because

I have a dream.

That you don't have.

You say "all I need to break your way"

But not anymore...

For I have chosen my way.

DUST

Dust is all over the world

Not a silly thing

It' s dangerous than fire,

Devastating than hurricane,

Catastrophic than flood

Our world will be a better place

A BIRD OF CONTRADICTION

Bird, bird

You are so lucky.

God has given you wings

With it you can go anywhere

You are so lucky

You don't to listen to the words

that threaten you.

You can fly high without tension.

You are so lucky.

You've got two wings

You fly to get twigs.

You're the symbol of freedom,

You're the epitome of motherhood.

The tree where you sit,

Is the room of your kid?
Where do you fly?
So up in the sky?
Also,
You're tasty to eat and FRY.

CUPBOARD

The leviathan stood
like a giant it looked.
Brimming with royalty
The exquisite sheen finish,
made it glow with pride.
But still, it's my cupboard.

Painted pink with little stars,
that shine in the dark.
But as pride goes before a fall,
all its beauty goes when it's opened.

All the trash, all the junk,
Come by,
But still it's my cupboard.

MYSTERIOUS CAT

Let me tell you all a story,
'bout a cat named Glory.
Glory, my neighbour's cat
with dangerous claws

I always found it mystic, cause it was in my attic
when I see that pussy cat,
I am in a panic.
With black fur on and green eyes
when he throws his sight
even a baby cries.
In all the creepy nights
the criminal cat makes horrible sounds and spreads
silence sinister not that bright

But all at once Glory vanished and how he left is still a mystery.

SAYUJYA VINOD CLASS XI
THE CAT

I saw a cat once on a street
White and fluffy it was looking at me with its beautiful eyes
As if it wanted to tell me something
It was an old and weak cat
And it was not able to walk properly
It seemed it had not eaten anything
I saw the sadness in its eyes
I gave it food to eat
But it didn't want it
Every day I saw that cat
Sitting in the same place, looking at me
But one day, the story changed
The cat was missing
Didn't see it for many days
I wonder where it is
The sudden disappearance

made me feel sad for a moment

Wherever it might be

I think it is fine and happy

My heart tells me it is.

KEERTHANA. MCLASS XI

SORROWLESS TEARS

She seemed to be crying,

But the tears seemed to be,

Not of one but many.

Was it sorrow or glee?

Was it laughter or a quick sob

Fighting to break out free?

The reason for her numerous tears,

Neither did I care nor ask.

It was not my business,

They said to ask

Of such things

The innumerable bruises said

More than she in her lifetime.

She worked, but was not paid.

She spoke, but was not heard.

She cried, but was not cared for.

She laughed, but was through tears.

She was punished.

But for what fault?

That she was born a girl?

Or that she had the Audacity to study?
Or was it for her
Courage to wear her choice of dress?
Now I realize,
Out of happiness were her tears,
Why? You ask?
The number of well-wishers, doing the "task"
Of deciding her life and fate
Was enough for her
To fill her eyes.

A WEEK WITH THE SEVEN SISTERS

Northeast India is the easternmost region of India representing both a geographic and political administrative division of the country. It was my long cherished dream to visit this part of India. We started the journey from Mumbai on 11.02.2018 and reached Shillong, our first destination on 13.02.2018. Shillong, the capital city of Meghalaya takes you through all different types of climates. On our first day of touring, we went to Elephant Falls which is known for its elephant shaped rocks and Clearwater. After that we went to a point where the rivers of the seven sisters (Meghalaya, Nagaland, Tripura, Mizoram, Manipur, Assam, Arunachal Pradesh) meet. The place was covered with fog and the cool breeze swept all our tiredness away. Then we went exploring the Mawsmai caves. The stones inside the cave were slippery and we fell down many time. It was complete darkness inside and then with the help of torch lights we finally reached the end point. There we learned the importance of cooperation and value of others as we were able to reach our destination with the help of many who weren't known to us. This cave was near to Cherrapunji, the place which receives maximum rainfall. We were fortunate as we went there during the end of the winter season. Cherrapunji during that season got dried up. From our first day's experience we were all eager to explore more places with new experiences. On our 2nd day in Shillong we first went to Dawki River which offered a boating service between two countries i.e, India and Bangladesh. The river spreads over both the countries and makes people from both the countries meet as the boating starts from India and it stops for a minute in the land of Bangladesh. But we aren't allowed to stand in the land. The boating was a breathtaking experience. Next we went to the India-Bangladesh border and there we saw the bond of friendship between the two countries. The countries are separated by a gate. Then we went to a village named Mawlynnong, known as cleanest city in India. The village also holds a place among the World's cleanest cities. The food and love of the people add more to its beauty. Plastic is banned here. Proper disposal of waste is another important thing. They served us delicious food and we ate to our heart's content. Then we went to the Living roots bridge which is made by the tribal community of Khasi, which they used to walk carrying log for domestic purposes. The bridge was built with the roots of two trees which still exist today and people all around the world visit this place as it is a naturally built bridge ever. Photography is allowed but sitting or standing on the bridge is banned to prevent any kind of damage to this natural wonder. This was all about the day. In the evening we had a walk across the market street of Shillong where we could hear people bargaining all around.

On the 3rd day we went to the Ward's lake (artificial lake), which is named after the then Chief Commissioner of Assam, Sir William Ward. The lake was originally his idea. It was Later constructed in the year 1894 by Colonel Hopkins. The lake is complemented by a botanical garden. Then we went to one of the boating sites in Shillong. After boating, we went to the Don Bosco museum. There we saw a wide variety of instruments, dress, ornaments, study on different tribal communities, cultures and more. Study about Christianity and names of missionaries who sacrificed for the betterment of the state were also mentioned along with the sacraments. We carried beautiful memories of Shillong as we continued our journey to Guwahati, Assam.

Kamakhya temple is situated in Guwahati town. After visiting the temple, we went to the Kaziranga national park which is known for its one-horned rhinos. We had a jeep safari to the inner side of the forest and we saw many animals including the elephants, zebras, rhinos and pigs. Migratory birds were also seen in this place. Then we went to the Umananda temple which is situated between two islands. We went to the cave in a boat. Since it was evening time, only the priest was seen there. Monkeys were more in number than humans there!! The capital cities have different atmospheres and crowds. In Shillong we could experience a silent atmosphere with a pleasant weather whereas in Guwahati, we experienced the lives of busy people and a different weather with lots humidity. On the next day, we started our journey from Guwahati to Kerala after conveying our sincere gratitude to all who made this trip memorable for us.

FASHION

This is the age of fashion
Where young one is having
Some passion
Students don't study during the session
They only care about the latest fashion
The girls only care about their flick,
Boys are always thinking
'Are they always looking fit?'
They put on goggles,
And bell bottoms,
And wander about like peacocks
To catch each other's attention
They waste most of their time,
Money and energy
On looking smart, beautiful
Fair and beautiful
They are mad
After fashion and haircut,
But when any question is asked,
Their mouth is shut

They don't know which life
They are leading in the locality
But the biggest wealth is this
World of character and morality!!

A RAIN LIKE SHIP

Season of rain is like friendship
With frequent showers of love and care
And at times a flood of sorrow
With pools of laughter
And drizzling of tears
With thunder like fights,
And lightning of anxiety
With a sudden darkness of mistakes
And a quick sunshine of forgiveness
With rainbow like mischief
Where paper boats become secret notes
Once when we are into both we get wet
Only to dry the wounds of grief by next breath
With rain drops the green ones took birth
And with friendship new friendships, new strengths and trust
A while later the rain stops but
The other true one continues to sail
